

DANIELLE RIOS

A love of Southern California's vitality and innovation inspired Danielle Rios to expand her boutique studio from Las Vegas to Calabasas two years ago. Rios' sophisticated residential and hospitality interior design has recently grown to include a new line of luxury furnishings with a focus on specialty pieces for the dressing room. "I'm a self-professed fashionista," Rios says. "While working on my last two projects, I fell in love with dressing room and couture closet design. They became the creative motivation for the Eden Collection by DRHC. These are the best pieces of furniture I've ever designed."

Rios' interior design process begins with collaboration with her clients to create cohesive interior architecture, space planning and room functionality. After the fundamentals are formed, statement elements such as doors, staircases and fireplaces are established. The "icing on the cake" follows with creating the ambience mood through colors, textures and impactful art. "I like to bring a sense of ease and teamwork to the process," Rios shares. "At DRDS we learn from every project, which is essential for artistic growth and client satisfaction."
